Objective and Features of the Fund

1. Objective of the Fund

The Chinese Yuan Renminbi (RMB) based SSE50 Index ^(*) (hereinafter referred to as the “Benchmark Index”) is used as an underlying benchmark.

The Fund aims at investment performance linked to the Benchmark Index, which means NAV volatility is to correspond with that of the yen converted Benchmark Index.

^(*)The SSE50 Index consists of the 50 most representative large scale and high liquidity stocks selected from the A-shares listed on the Shanghai Stock Exchange (Chinese: 「上海証券交易所」), using scientific and objective methods. The calculation method of the SSE50 Index is the Weighted-Average Market Capitalization Method, in which Free Floated Weight is adjusted. The SSE50 Index is calculated with a base date set as December 31, 2003, and it assumes the index value on that day to be 1,000.

The Chinese Yuan Renminbi based Benchmark Index is converted into yen, by using the telegraphic transfer middle rate of the next business day after the calculation date of the Benchmark Index. In the event that said rate is not announced, the Management Company could use an exchange rate, which it considers appropriate or equivalent to said rate.

2. Features of the Fund

■ Main subject of investment

-Investment trust securities (including investment securities issued by investment corporations) that invest in securities are to be main subject of investment by the Fund.

■ Investment Policy

- With respect to investing in investment trust securities, the basic policy of the Fund shall be investing mainly in separately specified investment trust securities that aim at investment performance linked to the Benchmark Index. The Fund complementarily invests in separately specified investment trust securities that aim at securing stable profitability and liquidity (hereinafter referred to as the “Designated Investment Trust Securities”). The Fund may revise the investment trust securities incorporated into it from time to time.

Nomura Money Portfolio Mother Fund

- ◆ The investment trust securities designated as Designated Investment Trust Securities may be later excluded from being so designated. Other investment trust securities, etc. (including investment trusts (which include investment corporations) established after the Fund was launched) that invest in securities may be later designated as Designated Investment Trust Securities.
- ◆ The investment ratio in investment trust securities shall be determined by considering their respective liquidities, limitations on cashability, and other similar aspects.
- ◆ During the period the Japan-China ETF Connectivity* is used, in general, the investment ratio to the Nomura ChinaAMC China 50 ETF Mother Fund (hereinafter referred to as the “Mother Fund”) is kept at a high ratio. Additionally, the “ChinaAMC” within the fund name means China Asset Management Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the “Company”), which is one of the leading asset management companies in China. Mother Fund mainly invests in “ChinaAMC China 50 ETF,” which is a representative ETF of the Company, taking into consideration the position of net asset value and liquidity.

Nomura Asset Management Co., Ltd. decided to join Japan-China ETF Connectivity, and reached an agreement to cooperate with the Company in providing products and services. Based upon this agreement, the substantial investment ratio of the Fund to the “ChinaAMC China 50 ETF”, in general, is kept at a high-ratio.

* “Japan-China ETF Connectivity” is a systematic program that links the ETF markets of both exchanges to each other via their ETFs. It was established based upon an agreement between the Japan Exchange Group, Inc. and the Shanghai Stock Exchange.

- In principle, the Fund does not hedge for the foreign exchange rate fluctuation risk applicable to foreign currency denominated assets that are substantially incorporated into the Fund.
- The Fund is a fund of funds and invests in multiple investment trust securities (funds).

-As a general rule, the full amount of dividends and other income arising from the trust assets are distributed after deduction of expenses. However, the amount of dividends that are payable may in some circumstances amount to zero. Even if any profits are realized from the sale and purchase of individual stocks, no dividends shall be paid.

* There is no suggestion or guarantee regarding the payment or the amount of future dividends.

Investment Risks

1. Factors that contribute to NAV volatility

The NAV of the Fund is subject to fluctuations in the prices of the securities, etc., in which the Fund invests. All profits and losses arising from fund management are borne by the investors. Any principal invested in the Fund by investors is therefore not guaranteed. Investors may incur a loss and the value of their investment principal may fall below par as the result of a decline in the NAV. The investment trust differs from a savings deposit.

Stock Price Fluctuation Risk	The NAV of the Fund may be influenced by stock price fluctuations since the Fund substantially invests in stocks. In particular, the stock price fluctuation of stocks listed on Chinese stock exchanges which the Fund substantially invests in is predicted to be greater than that of stocks listed on stock exchanges in industrialized countries.
Exchange Rate Fluctuation Risk	The Fund may be influenced by exchange rate fluctuations since the Fund, as a general rule, does not have a currency hedge to limit its exposure to an exchange rate fluctuation risk. This is especially with regard to Chinese currency, which is the substantial investment subject of the Fund, as liquidity of Chinese currency is highly likely to be limited compared to that of currencies of industrialized countries, such that the exchange rate fluctuations of Chinese currency are predicted to be greater than that of currencies of industrialized countries.

* The factors that contribute to fluctuations in the NAV are not limited to those mentioned above.

<<Primary Factors for Discrepancies between the Benchmark Index and NAV>>

The Fund intends to achieve an investment performance where the NAV corresponds to the fluctuations of the yen converted Benchmark Index; however, in managing the investment assets, we cannot guarantee that fluctuations will be identical to those of the yen converted Benchmark Index, primarily for the following reasons:

- (i) The beneficiary certificates of an exchange traded fund bear trust fees and brokerage commissions, etc. The incorporated ratio of component stocks of the beneficiary certificates of an exchange traded fund may differ from the incorporated ratio of the Benchmark Index.
- (ii) The price fluctuations of the beneficiary certificates of an exchange traded fund may differ from the price fluctuations of the Benchmark Index due to (a) sudden changes in the market, (b) small trading volume in the financial instrument exchanges, and other reasons.
- (iii) 1) The ratio incorporated within the Fund of the beneficiary certificates of an exchange traded fund and the component stocks and 2) the assets denominated in foreign currencies' exposure cannot always be 100% maintained, as there may be a disparity between (a) the timing of capital flow and (b) the timing of when the beneficiary certificates of an exchange traded fund, the component stocks, and/or comparable associated securities and stocks are actually traded in accordance with the said capital flow.

(iv) The Fund may incur market impact and bear costs such as brokerage commission, etc., by the adjustments of the portfolio due to changes of the Component Stocks, changes in capital of any individual stocks in the Benchmark Index, or any other causes.

(v) The valuation of a stock held by the Fund may not correspond to its valuation in the Benchmark Index (including differences in price due to the exchange rate).

(vi) The Fund may use futures transactions referred to the index, which are different from the Benchmark Index, or the fluctuation of the futures price does not correspond to the fluctuation of the index price.

(vii) The Fund may fail to manage the portfolio consisting of China A stocks in which the Fund substantially invests, in compliance with the component proportion of each component stock in SSE50 Index, due to regulations in China or restrictions by Chinese authorities.

(viii) Prices and Evaluations of the Object Stocks etc. may be directly or indirectly affected by legal or tax reform or other reforms in China.

(ix) The Fund bears certain costs, such as trust fees.

* The factors that contribute to the discrepancy between the Benchmark Index and NAV are not limited to those listed above.

2. Additional Considerations

The provisions stipulated in Article 37-6 of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (so-called “cooling off”) are not applicable to subscriptions to the Fund.

- In the event that a large number of redemptions occur and it becomes necessary to raise funds for the large number of redemptions within a short period of time or in the event that a sudden change in the market environment in the primary trading market occurs etc., there is a risk that the Fund may not be able to trade at an expected price (based on prevailing market prices) or the trading volume may be limited due to a temporary decline in the liquidity of the assets incorporated in the Fund. As a result of these risks, there is the possibility that the net asset value will be negatively affected, that acceptance of applications for redemption will be cancelled, or that the payment of redemption proceeds will be delayed.
- Management based upon the investment policy may not be achieved depending on funding trends, market trends, etc., or unexpected circumstances.
- The interest/liquidation payment from the issuers of the securities which are substantially incorporated into the Fund may be delayed.
- Transactions pertaining to the Fund, such as an investment in securities and contracts related to such fund, may default because of the bankruptcy, or other similar event, occurring to a counterparty.

- The number of the issuers and underwriters of the Index Linked Securities that the Fund substantially invests in is practically limited. Therefore, when investing in such securities, the Fund may not be able to make diversified investments or be required to make transactions at prices that deviate from theoretical prices.
- NAV of the Fund and the yen converted Benchmark Index may differ because of costs and other factors. It is not guaranteed that the Fund's investment performance will track or exceed the yen converted Benchmark Index.
- The NAV of the Fund may be influenced in the event that transactions of securities are made in a mother fund which the Fund invests in, due to changes in the capital in its baby fund.
- In China, wherein the Fund substantially invests, impacts that changes of political, economic or social situations cause on a financial market are predicted to be greater than in industrialized countries. Moreover, China has pursued the change of the country's economic system into a "socialist market economy" in recent years and has carried out reforms of the country's political and economic systems. There is a possibility that Chinese authorities will introduce numerous restrictions, such as foreign investment restrictions, as emergency measures due to future changes in the Chinese political, economic and social situation, or because of future changes in Chinese governmental policies (including changes of laws or interpretations of laws, changes of taxation methods, currency exchange restrictions, restrictions on imports, or other similar events). As a result of such restrictions, there is a possibility that there will be a significant adverse effect on a financial market or that the fund management will be highly constrained in its actions. New investments by the Fund may be prevented or significantly reduced, depending on how the investment environments, such as those described above, are changed. Also, as many of the related laws and regulations of China have been made in recent years, the interpretations given to such laws and regulations are not necessarily consistent. The Fund may be directly or indirectly affected by legal or tax reform, or other reform in China.
- When the Fund purchases and sells the beneficiary certificates of an investment trust that the Fund substantially invests in Chinese financial instrument exchanges, (i) the declining market liquidity due to sudden changes in the market, (ii) the liquidation of the beneficiary certificates of an investment trust, and (iii) the delisting of the beneficiary certificates of an investment trust from the financial instrument exchanges may make purchase and sale difficult or impossible.
- The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself. In particular, the discrepancy between the market price of the Fund and NAV is likely to be relatively large, since the upper limit of the trust principal of the Fund is lower than those of other ETFs.

- Beneficiaries cannot exchange their own beneficial interests in the Fund for securities corresponding to their share of the beneficial interests in the trust assets.

3. Risk Management System

The Management Company examines Fund performance and oversees management risks by having established a committee to take charge of these matters.

- Examination of the Fund performance

The committee reports and deliberates on the results of periodic examinations (analysis/evaluation) of the investment trust's trust asset performance results.

- Administration of management risk

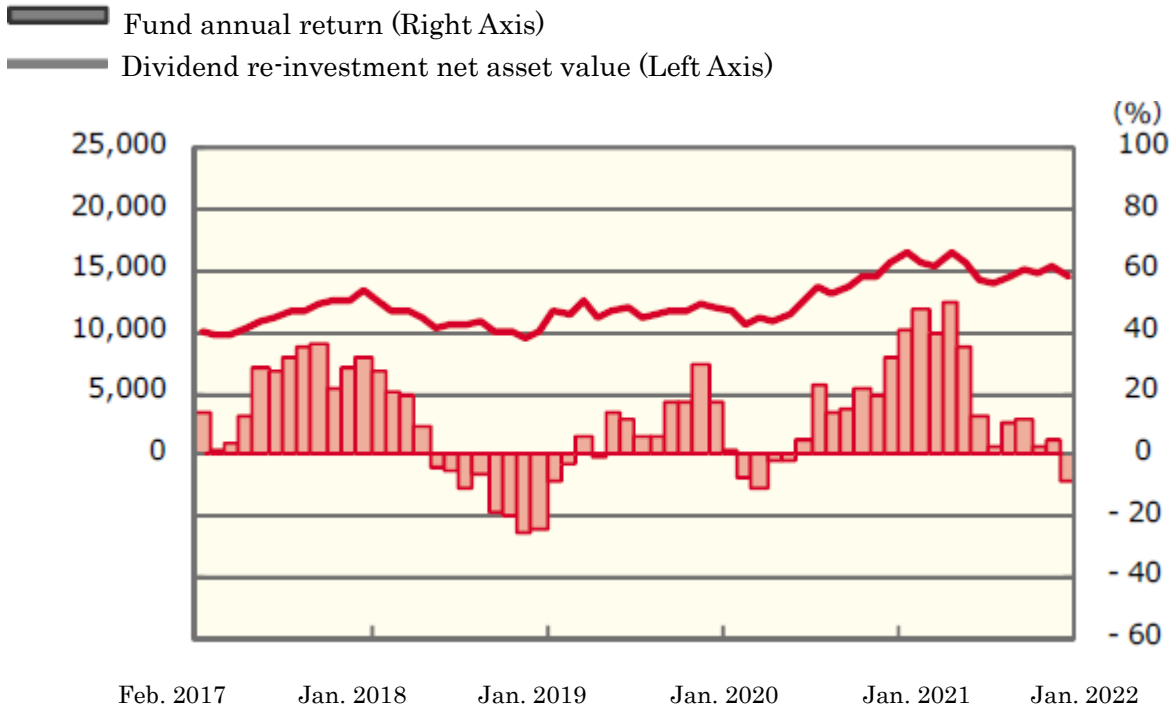

The committee identifies and manages management risk and, based on its findings, provides guidance to the appropriate divisional management and any other relevant sections regarding rectification measures for appropriate administration.

※Administration of Liquidity Risk

The committee establishes rules for the administration of liquidity risk, monitors the liquidity risk of assets incorporated in the Fund, and formulates/verifies emergency measures. The committee oversees the appropriate implementation of liquidity risk administration and oversees the liquidity risk administration system.
