Objective and Features of the Fund

1. Objective of the Fund

The Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index※ (hereinafter referred to as the “Benchmark Index”) is used as an underlying benchmark. The Fund aims at investment performance tracking the Benchmark Index, which means NAV volatility is to correspond with that of the Benchmark Index.

※ The Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index represents the doubled inverse performance (i.e., multiplied by minus 2) of the Nikkei Stock Average (Nikkei 225) on the daily return basis. This is calculated with the base date set as of December 28, 2001. It assumes the index value on that day to be 100,000 points.

2. Features of the Fund

■ Main Subject of Investment

- Short-term securities, such as short-term public and corporate bonds denominated in Japanese yen, etc., are the main subject of investment. The main types of transactions are stock index futures connected with the Nikkei 225 (including futures that are traded in foreign exchanges) (hereinafter referred to as “Object Futures Transactions”).

- The Fund may invest in (a) stocks that are included or are due to be included in the Nikkei 225, (b) investment trust securities that aim at investment performance tracking the Nikkei 225 ((a) and (b) are hereinafter collectively referred to as “Object Stocks, Etc.”), and (c) investment trust securities that aim at investment performance tracking the Benchmark Index (hereinafter referred to as “Benchmark Index Linked Investment Trust Securities”).

- Object Futures Transactions, and transactions of Object Stocks, Etc. and Benchmark Index Linked Investment Trust Securities are hereinafter collectively referred to as “Object Futures Transactions, Etc.”

■ Investment Policy

(i) The Fund aims at investment performance tracking the Benchmark Index, by carrying out Object Futures Transactions, Etc., as well as primarily investing in short-term securities, such as short-term public and corporate bonds denominated in Japanese yen, etc., and also in making call loans, etc.

(ii) In principle, the amount of (a) the market price of owned Object Stocks Etc. subtracted from (b) the total market price of short positions in Object Futures Transactions and that of the Benchmark Index Linked Investment Trust Securities (the amount of (a) subtracted from (b) is hereinafter referred to as “Substantial Short Position Exposure Amount”) is adjusted to be around double of the total net asset value of the trust assets in the Fund. When calculating the total amount of (b) above, the market price of the Benchmark Index Linked Investment Trust Securities is regarded as a double of the actual market price.

(iii) When an additional issue of beneficial interests occurs, the Management Company may adjust the trust assets such that the trust assets remain in compliance with policy (i) and (ii) above.

(iv) The Management Company may carry out transactions of the Object Futures Transaction in foreign exchanges, taking transaction volume and other liquidity into consideration. In such instances, when investing in assets denominated in foreign currencies such as margins in foreign exchanges, etc., in principle, currency risks are hedged.

(v) The Management Company will change the Contract Month to be executed for Object Futures Transactions, taking the transaction volume, liquidity, and other features of the Contract Month that is the object of the transaction into consideration.

(vi) Upon accepting a request to execute a partial redemption, the Management Company will liquidate the securities or other assets in the trust assets corresponding to the beneficial interests held by the requester of such redemption. However, the liquidation above shall not be applicable where the Management Company delivers cash, received for any additional issue of beneficial interests, to meet a partial redemption request.

(vii) In addition to the cases above, the Management Company will, in essence, issue investment instructions for the Object Futures Transactions, Etc., in order to adjust the components of the trust asset:

- (a) if the Substantial Short Position Exposure Amount no longer correlates to about double of the total net asset value of the trust assets because of fluctuations and other similar variations to the Benchmark Index;
- (b) if the calculation method of the Benchmark Index is changed or announced to be changed; or
- (c) in addition to provisions (a) and (b) above, if necessary to maintain a link between NAV and the Benchmark Index, or for any other similar reason.

Management described above may not be achieved depending on funding trends, market trends, etc.

* There is no suggestion or guarantee regarding the payment or the amount of future dividends.

Investment Risks

1. Factors that contribute to NAV volatility

The NAV of the Fund is subject to fluctuations in the prices of the securities, etc., in which the Fund invests. All profits and losses arising from fund management are borne by the investors. Any principal invested in the Fund by investors is therefore not guaranteed. Investors may incur a loss and the value of their investment principal may fall below par as the result of a decline in the NAV. The investment trust differs from a savings deposit.

Stock Price Fluctuation Risk	NAV of the Fund may be influenced by stock price fluctuations since the Fund actively utilizes stock index futures.
Bond Price Fluctuation Risk	Bond (such as public and corporate bond) prices can fluctuate due to fluctuations in market interest rates, fluctuations in the credibility of the bond issuers, etc., which may affect the NAV of the Fund since the Fund invests in these bonds.

* The factors that contribute to fluctuations in the NAV are not limited to those mentioned above.

<<Primary Factors for Discrepancies between the Benchmark Index and NAV>>

The Fund intends to achieve investment performance where the NAV corresponds tightly to the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index; however, in managing the investment assets, we cannot guarantee that movements will be identical to those of the Benchmark Index for primarily the following reasons:

- (i) The Substantial Short Position Exposure Amount will not exactly be a double of the total net asset value of trust assets in the Fund.
- (ii) The fluctuation of the Nikkei 225 will not necessarily correspond to that of evaluated prices of Object Futures Transactions.
- (iii) There may be a disparity between (a) the contract price of Object Futures Transactions made in order to carry out an additional issue or redemption, etc., and (b) the evaluation price of the Object Futures Transaction on those dates.
- (iv) The Fund bears transaction costs when carrying out an additional issue, redemption, or changes to the Contract Month to be executed for Object Futures Transactions. There may be a price spread between the prices of Object Futures Transactions taking place in different Contract Months.
- (v) There is interest and other income arising from investing in short-term securities, such as public and corporate bonds, etc.
- (vi) The Fund bears certain costs, such as trust fees.

* The factors for discrepancies between the Benchmark Index and NAV are not limited to those mentioned above.

When managing the Fund, we cannot guarantee that the NAV fluctuations will be identical to those of the Benchmark Index since the goals of the above investment policy may not be achieved by management, primarily when any of the following events occurs:

- When Object Futures Transactions are restricted;
- When the size of the Fund under management is small;
- When the ratio of the margin to be deposited for Object Futures Transactions becomes higher than a certain level; or
- When the Object Futures Transaction is not dealt, or all or a portion of a transaction required for the Fund is not dealt because of a large fluctuation of the market and/or lack of liquidity, etc.

2. Additional Considerations

The provisions stipulated in Article 37-6 of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (so-called “cooling off”) are not applicable to subscription to the Fund.

- In the event that a large number of redemptions occur and it becomes necessary to raise funds for the large number of redemptions within a short period of time or in that a sudden change in the market environment in the primary trading market occurs etc., there is a risk that the Fund may not be able to trade at an expected price (based on prevailing market prices) or the trading volume may be limited due to a temporary decline in the liquidity of the assets incorporated in the Fund. As a result of these risks, there is the possibility that the net asset value will be negatively affected, that acceptance of applications for redemption will be cancelled, or that the payment of redemption proceeds will be delayed.
- Management based upon the investment policy may not be achieved depending on funding trends, market trends, etc., or unexpected circumstances.
- The interest/redemption payment from the issuers of the securities which are incorporated into the Fund may be delayed.
- Transactions pertaining to the Fund, such as an investment in securities and contracts related to such fund, may default because of bankruptcy, or other similar event, occurring to a counterparty.
- NAV of the Fund and the Benchmark Index may differ because of costs and other factors. It is not guaranteed that the Fund’s investment performance will track or exceed the Benchmark Index.
- The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself.
- Beneficiaries cannot exchange their own beneficial interests in the Fund for the securities which correspond to their share of the beneficial interests in the trust assets of the Fund.
- The Management Company may delist the Fund and terminate the trust when unavoidable circumstances, such as if the NAV of the Fund becomes remarkably small, occur.

- Please be aware that the Fund will be delisted, and the trust will be terminated if the number of units of beneficial interests falls below 1,000 for 20 successive business days.

- Matters to be aware of concerning the nature of the Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index

The percentage change (i.e., the market price of a certain business day versus that of the following business day) of the Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index is always calculated as doubly inverse to (i.e., multiplied by minus 2) that of the Nikkei 225 where the business days are consecutive. However, in comparing the percentage change for a period longer than two business days, the percentage change of the Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index is generally not doubly inverse to (i.e., multiplied by minus 2) that of the Nikkei 225. This discrepancy is unavoidable due to the calculation method.

The discrepancy above will fluctuate according to the fluctuation of the Nikkei 225 for the period longer than two business days, meaning the spread may turn positive or negative. Generally, it is very likely that the spread will turn negative if the Nikkei 225 repeatedly cycles up and down, and the spread will tend to be larger if the period mentioned above is longer.

Therefore, the Fund is a financial product suited to the investment made for purposes of following relatively short-term market fluctuation, as opposed to being suitable for mid-to long-term investment.

- Matters to be aware of regarding the discrepancy between fluctuations of indexes and actual fluctuations of the market price of the Fund

There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its management target because the actual NAV of the Fund is affected by costs such as trust fees, an additional issue/partial redemption, and discrepancies in the fluctuation of Nikkei 225 and Nikkei 225 futures.

The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself.

3. Risk Management System

The Management Company examines Fund performance and oversees management risks by having established a committee to take charge of these matters.

- Examination of the Fund performance

The committee reports and deliberates on the results of periodic examinations (analysis/evaluation) of the investment trust's trust asset performance results.

- Administration of management risk

The committee identifies and manages management risk and, based on its findings, provides guidance to the appropriate divisional management and any other relevant sections regarding rectification measures for appropriate administration.

※ Administration of Liquidity Risk

The committee establishes rules for the administration of liquidity risk, monitors the liquidity risk of assets incorporated in the Fund, and formulates/verifies emergency measures. The committee oversees the appropriate implementation of liquidity risk administration and oversees the liquidity risk administration system.

◆ Regarding the fluctuation of the Benchmark Index

The Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index is an index whose daily percentage change from a certain business day to the following business day is represented as doubly inverse to (i.e., multiplied by minus 2) the percentage change of the Nikkei 225. Therefore, please be aware that, in comparing the percentage change for a period longer than two business days, the percentage change of the Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index is generally not doubly inverse to (i.e., multiplied by minus 2) that of the Nikkei 225, as indicated by the following examples.

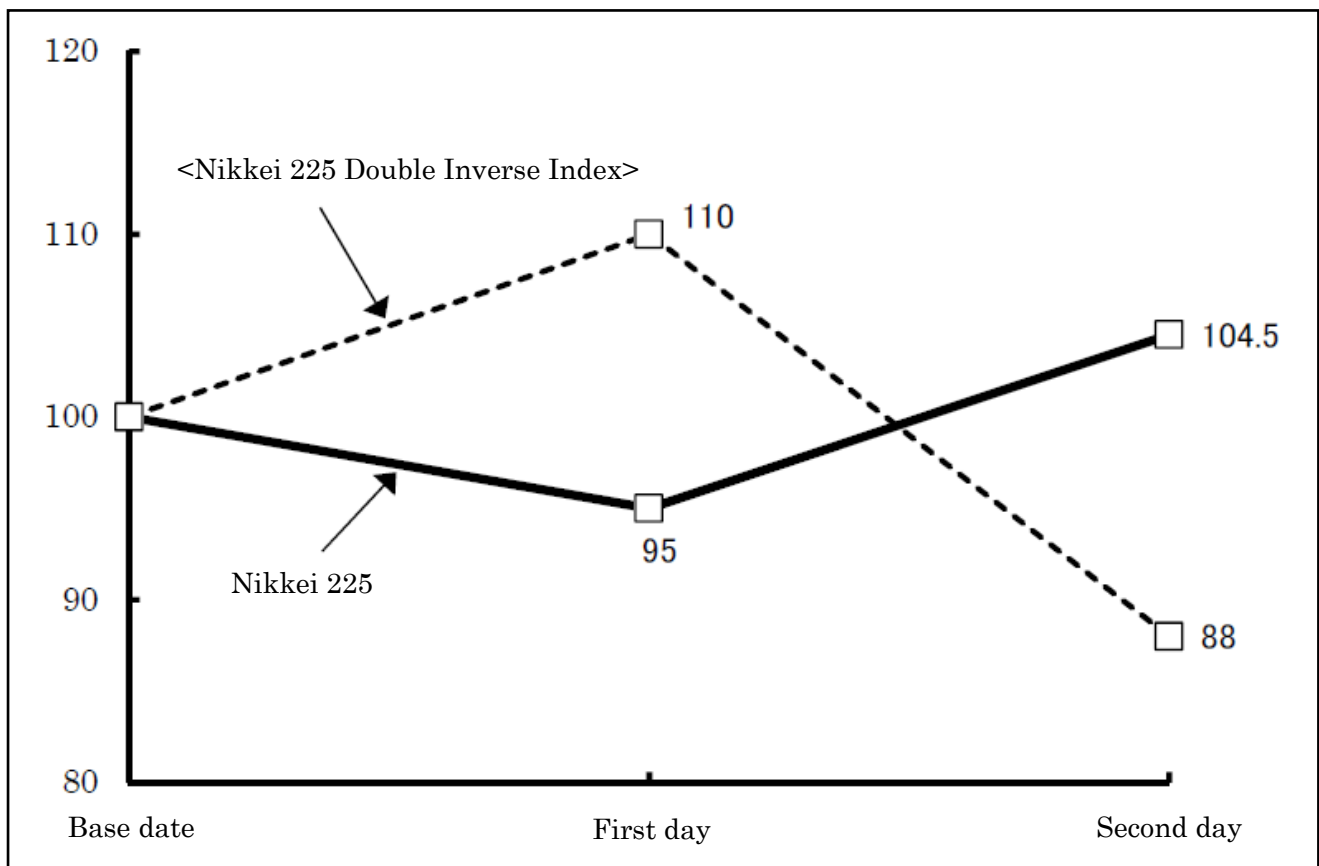

Example 1: When Nikkei 225 falls on the first day and rises on the second day

-Daily price fluctuation

	The first day	The second day

These illustrations above are calculated examples to explain the relationship of price fluctuations in the Nikkei 225 and the Nikkei 225 Double Inverse Index, and do not refer to actual performance.

There is no guarantee that the Fund will achieve its management target because the actual NAV of the Fund is affected by costs such as trust fees, an additional issue/partial redemption, and discrepancies in the fluctuation of Nikkei 225 and Nikkei 225 futures.

The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself.
