Objective and Features of the Fund

1. Objective of the Fund

The Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index* (hereinafter referred to as the “Benchmark Index”) is used as an underlying benchmark. The Fund aims at investment performance tracking the Benchmark Index, which means NAV volatility is to correspond with that of the Benchmark Index.

*The Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index is an index calculated by setting the highly liquid Contract Month for platinum futures listed on the Osaka Exchange, as the Benchmark Contract Month. The Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index is calculated with the base date set as May 31, 2002 (Platinum Index were listed on the Tokyo Commodity Exchange at that time). It assumes the index value based on the settlement price on that day to be 100.00.

2. Features of the Fund

■ Main Subject of Investment

-Short-term securities, such as short-term public and corporate bonds denominated in Japanese yen and other similar securities are the main subject of investment. The main types of transactions are platinum futures and related transactions.

-The Fund may invest in investment trust securities that aim at investment performance tracking platinum prices or platinum futures prices.

■ Investment Policy

(i) The Fund aims at investment performance tracking the Benchmark Index, by carrying out platinum futures and related transactions, as well as primarily investing in short-term securities, such as short-term public and corporate bonds denominated in Japanese yen, etc., and also in making call loans, etc.

(ii) In principle, the amount of the long positions in platinum futures and related transactions is adjusted to be nearly identical to the total net asset value of the trust assets in the Fund.

(iii) The Management Company will change the Contract Month to be executed for platinum futures and related transactions, taking the transaction volume, liquidity, and other factors of the Contract Month that is the object of the transaction into consideration.

(iv) Upon accepting a request to execute a partial redemption, the Management Company will liquidate the securities or other assets in the trust assets corresponding to the beneficial interest held by the requester of such redemption. However, the liquidation above shall not be applicable where the Management Company delivers cash, received for any additional issue of beneficial interests, to meet a partial redemption request.

(v) In addition to the cases above, the Management Company may issue investment instructions for platinum futures and related transactions in order to adjust the components of the trust asset:

- (a) If a calculation method of the Benchmark Index is changed or announced to be changed;
- (b) If interchanges of the selected transactions, etc., in the Benchmark Index are made or announced to be made;
- (c) In addition to provisions (a) and (b) above, if necessary to maintain a link between NAV and the Benchmark Index, or for any other similar reason.

Management described above may not be achieved depending on funding trends, market trends, etc.

Use of derivatives	Use of derivatives and commodity investment etc. transactions is not restricted to hedging purposes.

■ Distribution Policy

-Dividends are due on the 10th of February of each year.

-As a general rule, the full amount of dividends and other income arising from the trust assets are distributed after deduction of expenses. However, the amount of dividends that are payable may in some circumstances amount to zero. Even if any profits are realized from the sale and purchase of individual securities, no dividends shall be paid.

* There is no suggestion or guarantee regarding the payment or the amount of future dividends.

Investment Risks

1. Factors that contribute to NAV volatility

The NAV of the Fund is subject to fluctuations in the prices of the securities, etc., in which the Fund invests. ~~All profits and losses arising from fund management are borne by the investors. Any principal invested in the Fund by investors is therefore not guaranteed. Investors may incur a loss and the value of their investment principal may fall below par as the result of a decline in the NAV. The investment trust differs from a savings deposit.~~

Platinum Futures and Related Transactions Price Fluctuation Risk	As the Fund utilizes platinum futures and related transactions, the NAV of the Fund can fluctuate due to fluctuations in the price of platinum futures or related transactions. In particular, the NAV of the Fund may largely fluctuate due to highly volatile transaction pricing in the platinum futures or related transactions caused by a decline in the liquidity of platinum futures market, speculators' entry, government restriction and intervention, and other similar reasons.
Bond Price Fluctuation Risk	Bond (such as public and corporate bond) prices can fluctuate due to fluctuations in market interest rates, fluctuations in the credit of the bond issuers, etc., which may affect the NAV of the Fund since the Fund invests in these bonds.

* The factors that contribute to fluctuations in the NAV are not limited to those mentioned above.

<<Primary Factors for Discrepancies between the Benchmark Index and NAV>>

The Fund intends to achieve investment performance where the NAV tightly corresponds to the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index; however, in managing the investment assets, we cannot guarantee that movements will be identical to those of the Benchmark Index primarily for the following reasons:

- (i) The amount of the long positions in platinum futures and related transactions will not exactly be identical to the total net asset value of trust assets in the Fund.
- (ii) There may be a disparity between (a) the contract price of platinum futures and related transactions made in order to carry out an additional issue or redemption, etc., and (b) the evaluation price of the platinum futures and related transactions on those dates.
- (iii) The Fund bears transaction costs when carrying out an additional issue, redemption or changes to the Contract Month to be executed for platinum futures and related transactions.
- (iv) The Contract Month is not always changed in accordance with the index calculation rule, since the Management Company changes the Contract Month to be executed for platinum futures and related transactions by taking the transaction volume, liquidity, etc., of the Contract Month that is the object of the transaction into consideration.

- (v) There is interest and other income arising from investing in short-term securities, such as public and corporate bonds, etc.
- (vi) The Fund bears certain costs, such as trust fees.

When managing the Fund, we cannot guarantee that the NAV movements will be identical to those of the Benchmark Index since the goals of the above investment policy may not be achieved by management, primarily when any of the following events occur:

- When the restrictions on transactions are changed or new restrictions on transactions are introduced in a commodity market;
- When the size of the Fund under management is small;
- When the ratio of the margin to be deposited for platinum futures and related transactions becomes higher than a certain level; or
- When platinum futures and related transactions are not dealt, or all or a portion of a transaction required for the Fund is not dealt because of a large fluctuations of the market and/or lack of liquidity, etc.

*The factors that contribute to the discrepancy between the Benchmark Index and NAV are not limited to those listed above.

2. Additional Considerations

The provisions stipulated in Article 37-6 of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (so-called “cooling off”) are not applicable to subscription to the Fund.

- In the event that a large number of redemptions occur and it becomes necessary to raise funds for the large number of redemptions within a short period of time or that a sudden change in the market environment in the primary trading market occurs etc., there is a risk that the Fund may not be able to trade at an expected price (based on prevailing market prices) or the trading volume may be limited due to a temporary decline in the liquidity of the assets incorporated in the Fund. As a result of these risks, there is the possibility that the net asset value will be negatively affected, that acceptance of applications for redemption will be cancelled, or that the payment of redemption proceeds will be delayed.
- Management based upon the investment policy may not be achieved depending on funding trends, market trends, etc., or unexpected circumstances.
- The interest/redemption payment from the issuers of the securities which are incorporated into the Fund may be delayed.
- Transactions pertaining to the Fund, such as an investment in securities and contracts related to such fund, may default because of the bankruptcy, or other similar event, occurring to a counterparty.
- NAV of the Fund and the Benchmark Index may differ because of costs and other factors. It is not guaranteed that the Fund’s investment performance will track or exceed the Benchmark Index.

- The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself.
- Beneficiaries cannot exchange their own beneficial interests in the Fund for the securities corresponding to their share of the beneficial interests in the trust assets.
- Please be aware that the Fund will be delisted, and the trust will be terminated if the number of units of beneficial interests is below 1,000,000 for 20 successive business days.
- If early termination is approved, we will terminate the trust (early termination) on August 20, 2024. Until the date of the early termination, the Management Company can sell the Fund's assets with early termination in mind. As a result, the investment ratio of main subject of investment may decrease. In addition, if the trust is not terminated, it may not be possible to maintain the initially planned product quality, because it would be difficult to continue investment in accordance with the Fund's basic policy.

3. Risk Management System

The Management Company examines Fund performance and oversees management risks by having established a committee to take charge of these matters.

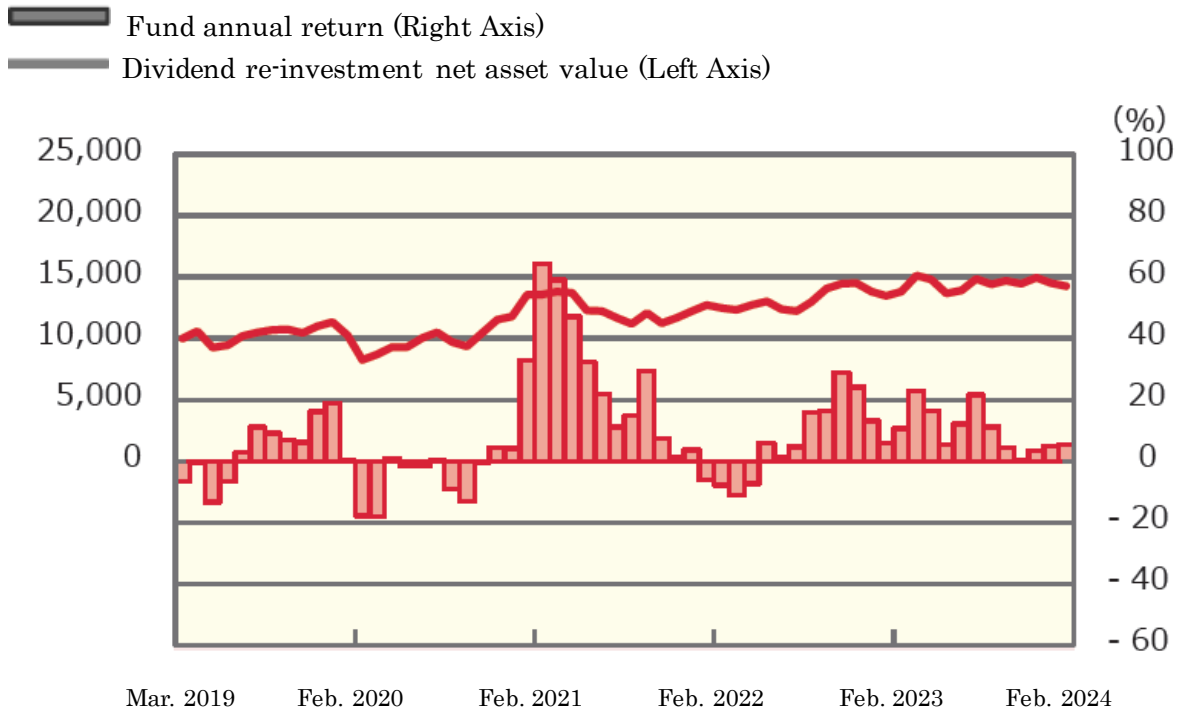

- Examination of the Fund performance
The committee reports and deliberates on the results of periodic examinations (analysis/evaluation) of the investment trust's trust asset performance results.
- Administration of management risk
The committee identifies and manages management risk and, based on its findings, provides guidance to the appropriate divisional management and any other relevant sections regarding rectification measures for appropriate administration.

※Administration of Liquidity Risk

The committee establishes rules for the administration of liquidity risk, monitors the liquidity risk of assets incorporated in the Fund, and formulates/verifies emergency measures. The committee oversees the appropriate implementation of liquidity risk administration and oversees the liquidity risk administration system.

Additional Description

- Fluctuations of the Index the Fund Objects

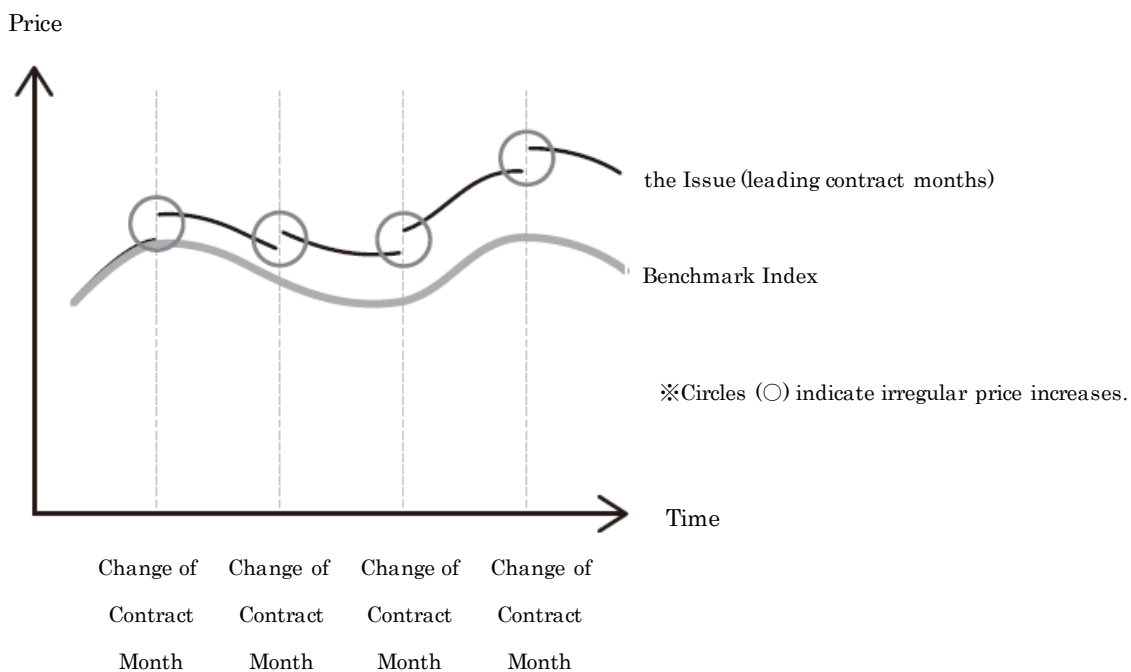

The Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index is set by indexing, in accordance with the established calculation rules, by setting the highly liquid Contract Month for platinum futures, listed on the Osaka Exchange, as the Benchmark Contract Month. In the platinum futures transactions, since the price of such transactions take into consideration the platinum's storage fee until delivery, interest burden, other associated costs, and the supply and demand futures forecast, the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index is different from the fluctuations in the spot price of the platinum.

Also, regarding the comparison of the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index and the fluctuations in the price of platinum futures transactions, since (i) there are cases where the issue of the platinum futures transactions adopted by the Benchmark Index are different from the issue of the platinum futures transactions adopted for the comparison, and also, (ii) in the event that a platinum futures transaction adopted by the Benchmark Index is the same with the issue of the platinum futures transactions adopted for the comparison, on the one hand, the performance of the price of the platinum futures transaction may differ significantly from each finish date to the next start date, on the other hand, the Benchmark Index adopts calculations rules to adjust for the difference in pricing. Thus, the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index are different from the fluctuations in the price of platinum futures transactions.※

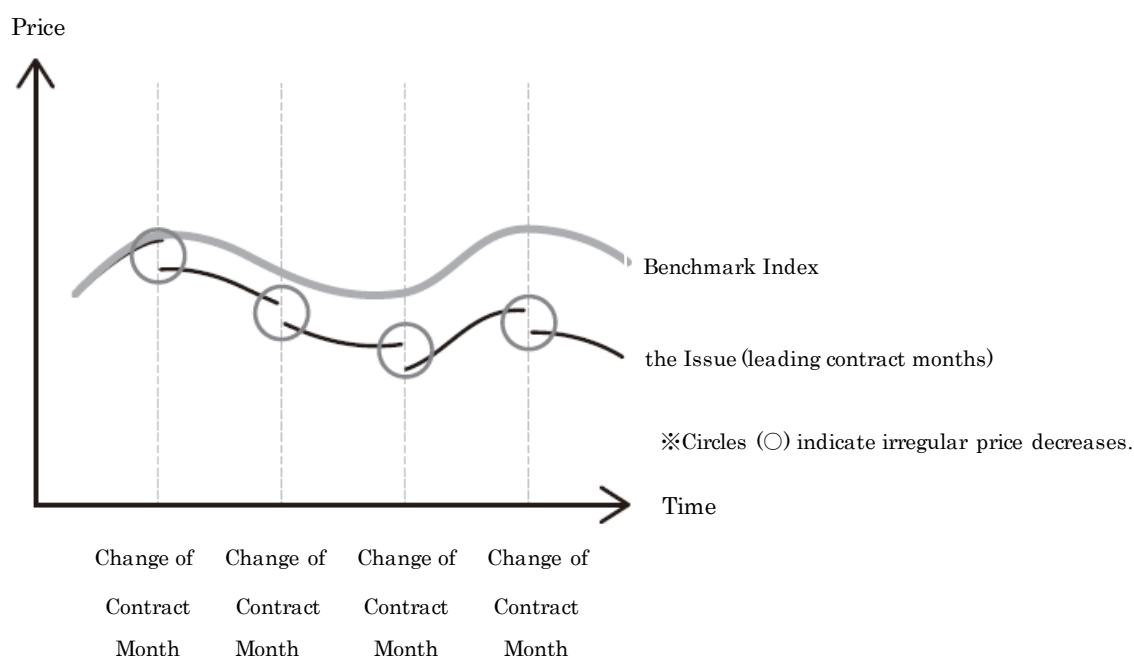

※With regard to the details, please refer to the following supplementary explanation.

<Supplementary Explanation> The discrepancy between the uncontinuous fluctuations in the price of the platinum futures transaction and the fluctuations of the Benchmark Index

Platinum futures transactions are traded as different transactions for each transaction deadline, even if the same platinum is the objective of multiple transactions. Every time the transaction deadline approaches and the trade volume declines, the price of a typical futures transaction, such as the issue with the highest trading volume (hereinafter referred to as the “Issue”), is replaced with the price of the futures transaction whose deadline period has not passed and whose futures transaction amount is highest (hereinafter referred to as the “Change of Contract Month”). Therefore, the value of the futures transactions price changes discontinuously before and after the Change of Contract Month. For example, in a situation where (i) the cost, such as storage cost of platinum and interest burden (hereinafter referred to as the “Costs”), decreases during the long period leading up to the transaction deadline and (ii) the price of the futures transaction decreases during the long period leading up to the transaction deadline, the price fluctuations of the Issue incorporate the decline of the Costs into the price and, each time the transaction deadline approaches and the trading volume declines, results in an irregular price increase by the Change of Contract Month. On the other hand, the Benchmark Index is calculated by excluding the effect of the Change of Contract Month. Therefore, if the same Issue is selected as the investment objective of the index, a downward discrepancy from the futures transaction price will occur with the Change of Contract Month, and the fluctuation range will also differ.

On the other hand, in a situation where the price of the futures transaction increases during a long period leading up to the transaction deadline, due to the effect on prospects for the future of the supply and demand (hereinafter referred to as the “Prospects”), the price fluctuations of the Issue incorporate the Prospects into the price and, each time the transaction deadline approaches and the trading volume declines, results in an irregular price decrease by the Change of Contract Month. On the other hand, the Benchmark Index is calculated by excluding the effect of the Change of Contract Month. Therefore, if the same Issue is selected as the investment objective of the index, an upward discrepancy from the futures transaction price will occur with the Change of Contract Month, and the fluctuation range will also differ.

The graphs above are illustrations to explain why the discrepancy between the price of (i) the platinum futures transactions at each finish date compared with the price at the next start date, and (ii) the fluctuations of the Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index. These graphs do not suggest the actual fluctuations. Also, the fluctuations of the platinum futures transactions and the fluctuations of Nikkei-JPX Platinum Index are not limited to the graphs above.

Actual NAV of the Fund may not completely achieve the target of the Fund management, because (i) the amount of the long positions in platinum futures and related transactions will not be exactly identical to the total net asset value of trust assets in the Fund, and (ii) the NAV of the Fund is influenced by the costs, such as trust fees, and an additional issue, or a partial redemption of the Fund.

The market price of the Fund is based upon supply and demand, as calculated through competitive buying and selling on the exchange. Therefore, market price may differ from the NAV itself.
